THE TRANSFORMATIVE POWER OF OIL PALM

CONFERENCE:

The role of agro-food robotics and data platforms in modern agriculture.

RAYMOND JONGSCHAAP

Business Unit Manager
Wageningen University and Research,
Agrosystems Research

SESSION 1
TECHNOLOGICAL CHANGE
AND PRODUCTIVITY.

SEPT 28 | 2022

Dr. Raymond Jongschaap is the Business Unit Manager of Agrosystems Research (70 scientists) at the Plant Sciences Group of Wageningen University and Research. He holds a Ph.D. in the integration of crop growth simulation modeling and remote sensing to improve the sustainability of farming systems, and an MSc in Tropical crop science (specialization on crops) at WUR. He is an expert senior researcher with experience in Europe, Latin America, Asia, and Africa on the evaluation of innovative agri-production systems, well-embedded in society, and with a focus. Agrosystems Research is part of the AgroFood Robotics research program that WUR engages with private partners.
